JAMES MONROE PRESIDENT OF U.S. A.D. 1817

The seal which appears on the cover of the MONROE ECHO is a presidential seal bearing a profile of James Monroe. On the reverse side of the authentic seal are the hands of an Indian and a soldier, and a peace pipe and a tomahawk which symbolize "Peace and Friendship."

The seals were first minted in silver when George Washington was President. With the incoming of each President, a new seal was made. Replicas are made in bronze by the United States Mint in Philadelphia and have been sought after as museum pieces. There is one in the James Monroe Memorial Library at the James Monroe Law Office.

JAMES MONROE

JAMES MONROE HIGH SCHOOL SONG

On the banks of the Rappahannock,
And the ancient King's Highway;
At the head of navigation
And the tide from the Chesapeake Bay,
Stands a city old and honored
May her shadows ne'er grow less;
And the jewel of that city
Is her High School, J.M.H.S.

Four square to the winds of heaven,
Four square to truth and right;
May she stand four square forever,
'Gainst ignorance and strife.
May she ever bear with honor
And her sons and daughters bless,
The flag that flies above her,
Our beloved J.M.H.S.

(Chorus)
Hail, hail, to James Monroe
Our own beloved High;
Though her pathway may be rugged
We will leave her with a sigh;
In the years before us,
Her name we'll always bless;
For she's our foster mother,
Our beloved J.M.H.S.

Dedication

Each year the Senior Class chooses a faculty member to whom the MONROE ECHO is dedicated. This year we are priviledged to give this honor to one who has spent many hours in helping educate the students of James Monroe High School. We, the Class of 1968, wish to thank him for his many contributions by dedicating the MONROE ECHO to Arthur H. Schwartz.

Class Poem

DON'T LET LIFE PASS US BY

Don't let life pass us by
Make our time here well spent
Create a purpose for our being
So that others may know where we're going
And where we went.

A life filled with meaning is never lost
And it grows richer day by day
We hold the key to a new tomorrow
Only you can decide what lies ahead, but it's for us
To choose the right way.

Whatever our choice we'll be proud
We shall lead and set our own pace
We'll be determined and then achieve
We shall pave the roads to progress and give the world
A bright new face.

We'll search for truth in the world
Only fools succumb to lies
We'll strengthen ourselves by building others
We'll tear down the walls of prejudice and then heed
The peoples' cries.

We'll develop a strong but free mind
Aiming only for the best, but why
So we can make something of ourselves tomorrow
Before we find that life . . .
Has passed us by.

Class History

Around the ages of six or seven, it was discovered that we Seniors could take short naps and talk in class. As a result, we were herded off to elementary school.

Our Younger Years were primarily composed of learning basic grammar and multiplication. However, there WERE some bright spots. Many of us remember the fourth-grade health charts and the teacher would make her rounds every day and ask, "Johnny, have you brushed your teeth today?" You got a red star if your nails were clean and a blue star if you brought a hanky.

We had many co-ordinated people in our class. Like the time Miss Best All Round, Elizabeth McGee, fell headlong into the mud-puddle. And when Jim had a post-graduation party down at his cottage and Ava Blum hadn't been there five minutes before she proceeded to fall in the water.

In school, we had those lessons in "rhythms" and square dancing. Bewildering were those trips to the zoo. As real swinging kids, we went along with all the fads - - the hula-hoop, the Pogo sticks, and the Happy Fizzies Parties.

Our seventh grade year was the highlight of our elementary school careers. Such additions as choral reading and memorizing "Stopping By Woods on a Snowy Evening" added much to our fun. Matter of fact, we enjoyed it so much that some of us even brought fresh flowers to one teacher. Right Neil Rankins and Robert Miller?

And there was the big Seventh-Grade Mystique - - the Dragnet. In those days, we were not eligible to attend unless we were in the eighth grade. But if you could sneak in, you were tres cool. They seemed so sophisticated, with all those dances, like the Twist, the Mashed Potatoes, the Slop, and the Limbo. And if we can remember correctly, everybody didn't dance, did they, Elizabeth?

As is true for every eighth grade class, our confusion was overwhelming. The one factor that added the most to our confusion was probably that wonderful book, English 2600. So, in order to counteract our confusion, we elected Ronnie Gosper to be our class president. Also, that was the year that it snowed on Sandy Lineberry's desk in Latin class; finally, it was the last year of Mr. Willis, the year that our class comprised the Junior Band.

The eighth grade was also the year of Betsy Armstrong, with all her little games; for instance, in a packed Volkswagen, she would suddenly yell, "Left Toe Time" and everyone had to grab their big left toe. And don't forget all those Chinese fire drills. Dances and music that year included the Bird, the Bosa Nova, the Pony, and the debut of the Beatles.

There was the famous Slob Party at Merrill Blatt's house, where everybody dressed up as a real slob, and a prize was given to the slobbiest slob - - of course, Janet Nelson walked away with it.

In September, 1964, came our freshman year, along with Fool's Fridays and Mythology, commonly called "Fractured Fairy Tales."

Our gym classes were not without excitement. Due to her exceptional acrobatic ability, Judy received the title "Rubber Legs Jackson". Also, in the boys' gym classes, we had fun. Someone seemed to be missing something when he was thrown out of the locker room. Right, "Weenie" Carter?

Surprisingly enough, people were still dancing that year - - the Watusi, the Hully-gully, the Locomotion, the Bristol Stomp, the Calypso, and, of course, the Freddy.

The freshman year was the year that our school spirit reached its peak. Matter of fact, Mrs. Pappandreau had to force a class to stay after school in order to have a freshman class meeting. It was at this meeting that someone made the wise suggestion that we choose the Tiger Lily as our class flower.

Our first (and our last) piece of business in our SOPHOMORE year was to change our class flower to something more sensible - - the pink rose. And we re-elected Chip Berry to serve again as our fearless class president.

Of course, the tenth grade was the year of the sophomore girls' dance, presented by Les Petites Jeunes Filles. Besides such activities as this, we cared for little else. The main schoolwork we did was to convert Julius Caesar into "jive talk." Wow!

It was the year of James Bond and the ejection seat, the James Bond attache case, and the 007 cologne. Dances that year included the Swim and the Frug.

Our Junior year introduced us to many new things, such as decorating for the Prom. Yes, the Prom starred that soul creation, "Creeper and the Vidells". Junior year introduced us to the newest additions of the King George Klan - - Martha "Bam Bam" Burns and Jan "Half-the-Time" Hamway. We were told conflicting opinions of ourselves. According to one beloved teacher, we were the "intelligensia"; another called us "babies". Many of us, though, enjoyed ourselves in class. People like Perry Smith with the tape recorder.

There were phenomena - - like the day that Dennis Hooten spied a centipede crawling up the wall and proceeded to squash it with his shoe. (We swear that bug is still on that wall!) And on March 13, 1967, Martha Burns said she was not fickle.

Fads that year included the Slurpy, the topless bathing suit, and dances like the Monkey and the Jerk. One very popular song around school that year was "I'm in the Mood for Love".

Extra-curricular activities really held our attention. Mark Sullivan, winner of the UN Essay Contest, went on the two-week tour. Susan Hall and Merrill Blatt took part in various college summer programs. Jim Pates spent the summer in Holland as our AFS representative. Boys attending Boys' State included Gary Ingalls, Jeff Chewning and Peyton Kash; Linda Jones and Sandy Lineberry attended Girls' State. This was also the first year that we started going to the Coachman.

But this past year, our Senior year, has been such an absolute drag that we could hardly think of anything to tell. For example, in the fall, besides having play practice, cheering practice, Homecoming practice, band practice, football practice, and hockey practice, there were always a few meetings to keep us from loitering in the halls. Of course, there were a few that just couldn't keep from staying here at school. For instance, Carter Frackleton, with her spotlight duties took up PERMANENT residence. She only went home on the week-ends.

All loyal, school-spirited students came to see the "Patsy", the Senior Play, and got to hear the famous five-minute ad lib performance by Marty Price and Penny Lewis. (But there's no use crying over spilt milk.)

Leading these activities was our class president, Bucky Cox, assisted by our DEPENDABLE treasurer, Neil Rankins. Academically, our leaders were Carolyn Martin, valedictorian, and Carol Chilcott, salutatorian.

Throughout the year, the Seniors enjoyed their privileges of coming into the school early and their college days. It was always helpful to find out more about your college by actually visiting it - - people like Gary Ingalls, Neil Rankins, David Gunckel, Peyton Kash, Bruce Pully, Jeff Chewning, and Lauren Dabel.

February came quickly, and we lost Mrs. Cuddy. There goes another English teacher.

Socially, nothing has happened this year - - only approximately seven formal dances, four parties, and a few Senior girls' pajama parties. There were fads like the Bomb, put out by the Slurpy people. Scott Brown can testify as to how good it tastes. There was the Bonnie and Clyde fad and such dances as the Bugaloo, the Funky Broadway, and the Shingaling.

The activity which was the most fun was probably our Variety Show. It starred such personalities as Big Mamma Jeanne Harris and "Otis Rob" Miller. As with everything else this year, there was a party afterwards. Nobody even felt the rain.

The Prom, as usual, was terrific. Somehow, the Juniors came up with a beautiful job. And we have to extend our appreciation to Bill Krufehs for his atmospheric party; our Life of the Party Winners were there en force - - Cheri Matter and Dennis Hooten.

Somehow, though, the last several weeks have gone rather slowly. For some reason, kids would cry out in the middle of class, "Only eight more days to go," and everybody would swoon.

So now, we're off to New York to stage our own Poverty March and then return to FAIL our final exams . . . .

AND WE'RE WORRIED!

Respectfully submitted,
Susan Scott

Class Prophecy

Scene—Hades

Welcome to my humble abode. I hope you won't find our hospitality too warm. Today is the exciting day, we get our new shipment of lost souls, and the odd thing about it, is—they're all from the James Monroe Class of 1968. Let's see what deeds they did to get here.

Teachers, Charlotte Maynard, Donna Daniels, Nancy Chinn, Claire Morfit and Martha O'Bryhim all are here because they failed to pass members of the football team. Judy Jackson, Liz McGee, Martha Burns, Pat Jones, and Karen Patterson failed to pass anyone.

International affairs specialists, Chip Berry and Jerry Snellings, are down here for allowing their passports to expire.

Steve Jones and Carter Davison, oceanographers, went off the deep end while exploring the ocean depths for news reporter Warren Shelton.

Robert Miller and Robert Dickenson were involved in the big business swindle of mini skirts, with sales manager, Paul Roberson and local cablevision tycoon, Donald Craig.

Marsha Carver had on her radio show noted comedienne, Becky Reamy, who used Ed Sullivan's jokes, Olympic equestrienne, Virginia Payne, first woman jockey in the Kentucky Derby, famous hairdresser, Shelly Boyle, who died Donna Mills' hair green, and musician Jeanne Harris, who had forgotten how to play in Carnegee Hall.

Surf Shop owners, Biffy Bond and Phil Harding, used one of their own expensive models and perished in two feet of surf.

Gail Mabe, one of the world's foremost anthropologists, was condemned for her research of the striking similarities between modern man and the ape.

Sally Wharton, director of a nationally known catering service, was condemned for a nation-wide epidemic of heartburn.

Archaeologist, Jeff Chewning, was found digging in Africa with an expired travel license.

Biologists, Janet Nelson, Chris Bald, Bucky Cox, and Valerie Adams, grew an unknown bacteria which was discovered to be from outer space, and then they couldn't kill it.

Marine Biologist, Ed Morfit, paniced when attacked in deep water by a giant seaweed.

Larry Cassiday, publisher of Voodoo magazine, hired Lauren Dabel as special features writer, and sports writer, Margaret Haney.

Mathematician's, Donna Isgrig, Becky Holcomb, Susan Hall, Mark Sullivan, Linda Jones, and Katie Rangos, were found trying to subtract with a sliderule.

Bill Beven and Sam Franzello, coaches, were caught coaching the girls hockey team. P.E. teacher of the year, Leon Scott, failed to teach his students how to lose in basketball.

The famous doctor team of Ingalls and Gunckel transplanted a heart into one of their patients only to find later that he had arthritis of the big toe.

Sandy Lineberry, woman pediatrician, was found hoarding all the children that came in her office.

Nurses, Jenny Demark, Linda Mastin, Rachel Deadman, Penny Lewis, and Donna Mills, spent half of their lives cleaning up broken petrie dishes after medical technician, Nancy Scott.

Physical therapist, Ann Soden, broke her nose.

Bridal consultant, Donna Sisler, decided to discontinue her work after she broke up two hundred thirty-seven marriages.

Psychiatrists, Loisann Silver, Susan Scott, Carolyn Martin, and Ava Blum, were found picking up the coins between the cushions of their couches.

Airline hostesses, Margaret Crisp and Jerry Campbell, were found an odd shade of green after their first flight.

Dental hygienist Carol Chilcott was accused of not installing Dixie cups in her office.

Interpreters, Carter Frackelton, Carol Forrestel and Linda Mayo, interpreted the Egyptian ambassador the right way and were blown up with the entire continent of Africa.

Marine biologist, Rosalie Ventura, was found discovering too many Marines and not enought biology.

Butch Stone, a famed economist, used a pen two weeks after it ran dry to get his money's worth.

Danny Sullivan, civil engineer, had a problem how to get rid of the allegators in his new sewer system.

Ronnie Covington, Herman Griffin, Bobby Wimmer, Alice Denning, and Carol Johnson, local IBM workers, went on strike for softer key-punch machines.

A retailing agent for a New York department store, Tommy Richards, is worried because the shipment of Barbie dolls he purchased ten days ago still hasn't arrived.

The team of engineers, Caesar Alsop, Bob Carter, Robert Moore, Ronnie Gosper, Bill Kurfehs, and John Samer, who designed the Cross-Continent Tunnel, were accused of causing Pike's Peak to collapse.

Famed racing mechanic, Al Littek, was caught using Super Shell without Platformate.

Electronics engineer, Steve Cates, accidentally electrocuted himself.

James Moore, Billy Nolan, and Jerry Snellings, Cleveland data processors, were found date processing and getting too many confidential statistics.

The architectural draftsman, Tommy Crickenberger, became upset when he found his straight edge was crooked.

Ronnie Gallahan, an aviation expert, invented a way to fly without any plane.

Carey Leitch and Kathy Warford, the aeronautical engineers who designed the Pluto rocket, were so concerned with designing the inside of the rocket ship that they forgot to design a door to get in.

Tony Sprow, the computer scientist, was responsible for programming the Alfred E. Newman doll.

Mechanic Ray Bailey forgot to put STP in the President's Lincoln; but assistant Mike Coley put the sticker on anyway.

Travis Cooper put an anti-Bonnie & Clyde alarm system in his bank and was robbed by Jesse James's grandson.

Successful advertiser George Gelardos released a line of Salem cigarettes with the country taken out and smog added.

David Lough redesigned his Sherwin-Williams paint sign in black and white.

Chief of Rescue Squad Tom O'Connell was found moonlighting at Sears.

Marine pilot Marty Price rescued a honeymoon couple from a deserted island in the Bahamas.

Steel industrialist George Shiffler made ball bearings out of kids' steelie marbles.

Forest Ranger Perry Smith was caught poaching giant Dodo eggs.

Coach Barry Sullivan led the J.M. football team to the winning touchdown—Stafford won.

Drama teacher Debra Furches held the leading role in 37 consecutive senior plays.

World traveler and critic Jan Hamway broke the chain on her bicycle and stole a rickshaw.

Cynthia Varnado, telephone operator, was found asleep at the switchboard.

Architects, Neil Rankins, Bill Robison, and Jim McCrory, are still puzzled over the dissolving of their styrofoam bridge over the Atlantic.

Marine lawyer Peyton Kash was found defending himself in 9 out of 10 cases.

Marcia Brooks held the starring role in the Devil's Advocate. We can use her here.

Gerald Thomas—we could use him to install air conditioning here.

Diane McGhee, Bonnie Brown, Virginia Calamos, Rachel Deadman, Barbara Gross, and Cheri Matter, all of whom are secretaries, were condemned for failing a refresher course in office practice.

Merrill Blatt, world famous expert on international affairs, was impartial mediator in the 53rd annual Middle East War.

Elaine Virvos, curator of the internationally known Metropolitan Museum of Egyptian Antiquities, was condemned for displaying a Budweiser pop-top as Cleopatra's nail file.

Paula Lloyd, a horse enthusiast, was condemned for spending her time on earth at the race tracks. Now we know where betting leads you.

Dale Cameron, Lonnie Otey, and Joan Wood, commercial artists, portrayed Jackie Gleason as the White Knight in a Fab advertisement—condemned by the horse.

Scott Brown and Jerry Jones, police officers, were condemned for chasing high school kids out of Hardee's parking lot after midnight.

Prosecuting attornies, Bob Broughton, Dennis Hooten, Jim Pates, and Bruce Pulley were convicted for securing the conviction of Kathy Winters, who was charged with failing to use Ice Blue Secret.

Roy Surles, a Christian Service Missionary (how'd he get in here?)

Phil Henderson, a secret agent for the C.I.A., was condemned for reading Dick Tracy Comics while on the job.

Barbara Rose, fashion merchandiser, was guilty of authorizing the shipment of three million faulty girdles to Gimbles Department Stores.

SCA Christmas baskets for the Salvation Army

SCA

The Student Cooperation Association is James Monroe High School's most vital organization. As a representative assembly, it gives every member of the student body an opportunity to play an active part in school government. The SCA consists of five officers: president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, reporter, a representative from each homeroom and all club and class presidents. This year's activities included the annual magazine drive, the preparation of Christmas baskets for needy families, a fund raising campaign for the March of Dimes, a clothing drive for the underprivileged in Appalachia, the initiation of a student dress code, and various physical improvements for the school such as the installation of an additional telephone and new signs for the office. Every assembly presented to the students during the year was arranged through the SCA.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society is an honorary organization consisting of outstanding sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Members are selected by the faculty on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. A member must maintain a 90 average and display honorable and praiseworthy conduct and attitude at all times. The new members are tapped into the Society in a special assembly during American Education Week. This year the National Honor Society along with the Key Club gave a $100 college scholarship to a deserving senior.

Key Club

The James Monroe Key Club is part of an international organization to develop leadership in boys. The members are those sophomores, juniors, and seniors who excell in their school work and have good achievement in their other activities. They perform services to the school and the community. This year they held several car washes and collected books to be sent to the Phillipines.

Debate

DEBATE TEAM GOES TO STATE CONTEST

Debating demands a great deal of hard work in preparation for a debate. However, this work is often rewarded. For instance, this year the James Monroe affirmative team, consisting of Jim Pates and Jim Martin, was awarded a trophy for first place in the Battlefield District. The negative team, consisting of Bob and Bill Broughton, placed second in the district. After winning first place in the district, the Pates and Martin team traveled to Charlottesville and placed third in the State Tournament. The subject for the debates was "Resolved: That Congress should form uniform regulations concerning criminal investigation procedures."

Spotlight

The Spotlight, the school newspaper, was under the direction of Carter Frackelton, editor this year. The paper was printed every two weeks containing stories of major events at JM and all news affecting the JM students. Each copy was ten cents or they could be ordered by subscription in the fall. Mr. Neill has been a faithful sponsor for 30 years and has devoted much time to improving the "Spotlight."

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club, sponsored by Miss Carolyn Robinson, is an organization of Spanish students united to promote better relations with Spanish-speaking people. One of the Spanish Club's activities this year was the formation of "pen pals" in Spanish-speaking countries. Another activity of the Club members was their candy sale at Christmas to raise money for their trip to Washington, D.C. in the spring. On their trip to Washington, the Spanish Club members visited the Pan American Union Building, and the Smithsonian Institute. They also had lunch at a Spanish Restaurant where they got a "real taste" of the Spanish way of life!

The purpose of the Future Teachers of America is to prepare those students who are interested in a career in teaching. The members hear guest speakers, see films, and participate in discussions to acquaint themselves with the responsibilities and duties of a teacher. This year several FTA members and a chaperon, Miss Milsap, attended the state FTA Convention in Richmond. The annual tea for Fredericksburg teachers was held in the fall, and the annual banquet for club members was given in the spring.

Future Homemakers of America

This year's FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA theme was "Leisure Time, Constructive Time."

In addition to monthly programs, the members participated in several special activities. The group held a "Family Night" covered-dish supper, and a bake sale. The James Monroe Chapter hosted the Dolly Madison Federation Workshop for Officers in the spring, and they attended the Spring Rally at the Community Center, where they participated in a fashion show composed of clothing which members had made.

This year the Marching Yellow Jackets was extended to over eighty members, including the marching band, majorettes, flagettes, drum major, color guard, and banner carriers. The new "Marching 80" participated in over twenty performances, including the Dogwood Festival at Charlottesville and the Winchester Apple Blossom Parade, and received numerous awards. This year was highlighted by the band's trip to the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Florida, where it performed in front of almost 70,000 people.

Parades, Parades, and more Parades.

Flagettes

This year an addition was made to the Marching Yellow Jackets Majorette Corps. Six girls worked diligently throughout the fall to become the Flagettes. They have now become a permanent part of the majorettes to give added flash and color to the "Marching 80".

The annual Sights and Sounds program was held on May 9 this year. Again the chorus did a lovely job of performing. They have also made several appearances at assemblies during the school year.

Mrs. Stevens directs the chorus in concert.

Homecoming '67

This year's Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the G.A.A., was beautiful. The theme was "Charlie Brown's Christmas", and the gymnasium was decorated with pictures of the "Peanuts" characters.

The "Patriots" provided the music as the queen, king, princess, and prince were crowned and the court presented.

The Patsy

The Senior Class of '68 presented The Patsy by Barry Conners on November 17, 1967 at 7:30 in the JM auditorium. It was directed by Lee Wingate Pappandreau and Student director Pat Jones.

The Play was a comedy in 3 acts about the Harrington family and their two completely different daughters. It enacted the problems and everyday fusses and fights in an everyday family.

"Let's make it perfect!"

Junior-Senior Prom

This year the Junior-Senior Prom had as its theme "Southern Serenade." The gym was decorated with large white and pink dogwood blossoms with a chandelier as centerpiece. Streamers of white crepe paper were draped from the center. The Junior Class worked hard to make April 27, 1968, a memorable night for every junior and senior.

Thank you, Mrs. Armstrong.

A place to go

The New York skyline

Thursday morning, May 23, at 6 am the sleepy Senior Class of '68 boarded three Trailways buses for New York City. After arriving they toured the New York Stock Exchange Building and the United Nations Buildings. Then they were ready for the two and a half hour meal at Mama Leone's, which was followed by a subway ride to Greenwich Village for an evening of entertainment at the Bitter End.

The following two days proved to be busy ones. The seniors visited Lincoln Center, the American Museum of Natural History, the Empire State Building, and the Metropolitan Art Museum. Some of the students went to the play, Cactus Flower, while the others went to the Statue of Liberty or a ball game. All the students attended Radio City Music Hall and the Broadway Play, Mame.

Saturday night arrived and the seniors said "Goodbye" to New York from the roof of Rockefeller Center. Early the following morning the Senior Class of '68 was delivered to the front doors of JMHS. They and their chaperons were tired and sleepy, but all agreed that the trip was successful.

Senior Assembly - . . . And We're Worried

The Senior Assembly way held an May 22 this year with Senior Class President Bucky Cox presiding. The assembly was given a theme this year, which was ". . . And We're Worried." The Class History was presented by Lauren Dabel, Carol Chilcott, Susan Scott, and Jim Pates. The Prophecy was acted out by Bobby Carter, Neil Rankins, Sandy Lineberry, Carol Forrestel, Carolyn Martin, Jeff Chewning, and Bucky Cox. The Last Will and Testament was read by Becky Holcomb, Jimmy McCrory, Peyton Kash, and Debra Furches. Following the presentation of the Class Poem by Carolyn Martin, its author, the editor of the Monroe Echo, Linda Jones, dedicated the 1968 annual to Mr. Arthur H. Schwartz.

Carol and Lauren read the Class History.

Guess who?

The Devil's Helpers tell about the future.

Graduation

The Graduation Exercises were held in the James Monroe Auditorium Friday, June 7. The Valedictorian and Salutatorian gave speeches and Mr. Boley spoke briefly to the Seniors. The Awards and Scholarships were presented, and Mr. Snead, the Superintendent to the Fredericksburg City Schools, presented the diplomas to the Senior Class of 1968.

The speakers

"It won't be long now."

Ready, girls?

The long awaited moment

It's all over.

NOW WHAT?

Now that you have graduated you must answer the inevitable question—"now what?" For all of you it means the continuation of studies in one way or another, because learning must and will continue throughout your lives.

In the years to come you may have no more report cards or examinations, but everything you do will be judged realistically. Your preparation for every goal will be carefully watched, thoughtfully evaluated.

Your courses have given you the tools for thought and judgement. They will serve you well, whatever the future has in store for you.

Here at American Viscose we owe much of our progress to the adoption of new ideas, new improved methods and fresh approaches brought to us by young people like yourselves who never learned to stop learning.
